Collegians Rap Classroom TV

One-Eyed Monster Gets Grade of Zero

COMPTON, Calif. (AP)—TV, as an instructor, is strictly a one-eyed monster from nowhere among the crew-cut set at Compton College.

The collegians say:

They're tired of being guinea pigs in a pioneer TV education project.

Video instruction has all the fascination of an hour-long commercial.

It gets a zero in the campus audience rating — compared with an old-fashioned professor you can talk back to.

Friday more than 200 cut classes and picketed the campus with placards protesting "automatized education" and "robot classrooms." They hanged in effigy a headless figure called "pioneer spirit."

Sophomore Ted Hallisey, 20, a lead of the Student Organization for Better Education, explained:

"When a student sees TV, he expects entertainment. He's expecting 'Gunsmoke,' not algebra. And there is no instructor to ask questions of and clear up misconceptions. It destroys the entire aspect of student-teacher relationships."

The anti-TV faction says it has signatures of 1,500 students seeking to oust TV from the classroom and return it to the living room. The two-year Southern California school has an enrollment of 1,800.

College President Paul Martin, who introduced TV instruction, blamed the faculty for the fuss.

He said only a minority of the students really oppose the project and he hopes to expand TV instruction because, he said, it saves tax-payers' money and helps solve the teacher shortage.

The college has four television classrooms of 40 students each — in freshman courses of English, psychology and algebra — under the supervision of a single instructor. Lectures featuring Compton professors are filmed on campus for showing over classroom TV screens.

Martin is backed by the economically-minded California Taxpayers Assn. and opposed by the California Teachers Assn. The teachers say they don't mind TV as a supplementary teaching aid but oppose it as a substitute for an instructor.

No Extra Vacation Due Postal Workers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Post office workers won't get a holiday on July 3 like most government workers. President Eisenhower Friday authorized the holiday because the 4th of July falls on a Saturday. But Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield later announced that Post Offices will remain open July 3 and there will be normal mail deliveries that day.

Historical Meet Set

The Pickaway County Historical Society will meet at 8 p.m. Monday in the trustees' room at the Library. Committee reports will be given.

Highway Department to Erect Sign at Belle Siding X-ing

A new sign, at the Belle Siding turnoff to Circleville on Route 23 north, will be erected soon by the State Highway Department.

The sign will indicate the turn-off movement required to reach Circleville by way of old Route 23. It will be about 72 inches by 11 inches.

The sign will carry the word "Circleville" in large letters with the words "Business District" in smaller letters.

Pickaway County Rep. Ed Wallace announced the decision of the highway department today. He said he received a letter from E. L. Sheley, announcing the sign will be erected as soon as it is painted by the division sign shop.

A committee of the Retail Merchants Committee of the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce requested a sign be placed at the Belle Siding intersection to direct shoppers to the Circleville business district.

IN THE LETTER to Wallace, Sheley said:

"Apology is made for my apparent slowness in giving you a definite answer regarding the sign north of Circleville on Route 23 where the new road leaves the old road entering Circleville from the north.

"You have discussed this matter with me on several occasions as well as corresponding with me on this subject. Up until this time I have been unable to provide you with a definite answer."

Testimony Slated Monday In Klumpp Murder Hearing

CINCINNATI (AP) — Preliminaries are over in the murder trial of blonde Edythe Klumpp. The sober intricacy of testimony starts next.

There are several questions to be answered when the trial resumes next Monday, including the mystery of Mrs. Klumpp's car.

Mrs. Klumpp, 41, part-time home economics teacher and nursery school operator, is accused of killing Mrs. Louise Bergen, 32, Oct. 30, and burning the body.

The state says Mrs. Bergen died because she refused to divorce her husband William, with whom Mrs. Klumpp was living.

A jury of six men, six women, made a day-long tour Friday of sites that will crop up in testimony. Mrs. Klumpp and her attorneys, William F. Hopkins and Harvey Woods, accompanied the panel to the courtroom.

She declined to go with the jury and court officials to Cowan State Lake in neighboring Clinton County, where the state says she burned the body of Mrs. Bergen.

The prosecution also quotes Mrs. Klumpp saying Mrs. Bergen died in the car when shot as the two women struggled over a gun.

The car, stripped of its seats and floor covering, is now in the basement of the Hamilton County court house.

Chicago Meat Packing Era Ending as Firms Move Out

CHICAGO (AP) — An era in Chicago's meat packing industry is coming to a close.

Within a few weeks, all major companies which brought the city renown as "hog butcher for the world" will have quit livestock slaughtering in Chicago.

Wilson & Co., third largest meat packer in the nation, ceased slaughtering operations here four years ago; Swift & Co., the No. 1 meat producer, halted all slaughtering today and within the next few weeks Armour & Co., the second largest, also will shut down its plants here.

All ascribed the shutdowns to facilities too obsolete to be modernized profitably. Each had operated in Chicago more than 75 years. Most of that time they virtually comprised the industry here and made Chicago the largest livestock market in the world.

But with the expansion of railroad facilities and trucking operations, the companies built more modern plants elsewhere, always moving closer to sources of livestock supply and markets for meat.

The departure of these great companies from Chicago, however, does not leave the city without this major industry. There still are about 25 packers who buy approximately 25 per cent of all cattle and sheep and 30 per cent of all hogs shipped to Chicago for sale.

Gov. Long Claims He Was Kidnapped

GALVESTON, TEX. (AP) — Attorneys for Gov. Earl Long of Louisiana conferred today about procedure when Long seeks release from a mental clinic here.

An application for a writ of habeas corpus comes up Monday before District Judge L. D. Godard.

Long, in his petition Friday, said he was "illegally confined and restrained in his liberty at the John Sealy Hospital." He was flown from Baton Rouge to Galveston May 30, and, according to his petition, was drugged and strapped to a stretcher for removal from the governor's mansion.

And now, he contends, he is a governor in exile by force and kidnapping." Lt. Gov. Letther Frazer has been carrying on the Governor's functions.

Air Defense Master Plan Is Unveiled

Previous Eisenhower Critics Unimpressed By Shift in Emphasis

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration's new master plan for air defenses has met with little enthusiasm among some senators who have been critical of defense policies.

The plan, outlined by Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy Friday, involves a shift in emphasis from defense against manned bombers to defense against the ocean-spanning missiles of the future.

It would cut back funds for the rival anti-aircraft missiles of the Army and Air Force, the Nike-Hercules and the Bomarc. It would add funds to the Army's Nike-Zeus program, aimed at eventual development of missiles to knock down enemy intercontinental missiles.

Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) gave general approval. He is chairman of the Armed Services Committee which prodded Pentagon officials into defining the new strategy.

Russell estimated about 1 billion dollars would be saved by the Nike-Hercules and Bomarc cutbacks.

But Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.), a frequent critic of administration defense policies, called the new plan ridiculous and "a continuation of the previous master compromise of the Joint Chiefs of Staff."

Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) engaged in long debate with Secretary McElroy in the closed door session of the committee. He talked about the new program as well as what parts of it could be disclosed without endangering national security, other committee men said.

Later Symington told newsmen the revised plan "at best is but a compromise effort to satisfy each of the quarreling services. It guarantees further waste of billions of dollars."

Sen. Francis Case (R-SD) teamed with Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss.) in asking testimony from top air defense officers before the Senate acts on the proposed cutbacks.

In spite of McElroy's testimony, there still was considerable confusion over just what the dollar cutbacks would mean to the Hercules and Bomarc programs.

The interservice struggle over the merits of these anti-aircraft weapons was what touched off demands for the new program, which was approved by President Eisenhower before it reached Congress.

Russell said details of the new plan will be given later to the Senate Appropriations Committee, which is handling the 39 billion dollar annual defense money bill.

Boys State Set To Name Governor

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Some time Sunday afternoon, a resident of either Warren or Euclid will become governor.

And while Gary Richelot of Warren or Dennis Bathory of Euclid will be an Ohio governor, his authority will extend only over a state-within-a-state, the American Legion-sponsored Buckeye Boys' State on the Ohio University campus here.

The two, nominated Friday, are among high school seniors to be taking part in the annual program to teach young men how state government operates. It began Thursday and ends a week from today.

DiSalle Says Symington Joshing about Candidacy

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Stuart Symington, the U.S. senator from Missouri, has indicated he won't seek the Democratic presidential nomination next year. He says he doesn't consider himself a candidate for the job.

He said he was "illegally confined and restrained in his liberty at the John Sealy Hospital." He was flown from Baton Rouge to Galveston May 30, and, according to his petition, was drugged and strapped to a stretcher for removal from the governor's mansion.

Defendants Testify In Controversial Florida Rape Case

East-West Accord Prospects Wane

GENEVA (AP) — American officials said today prospects appear dim for the Soviet Union and the Western powers reaching any agreement on Berlin and Germany at the current Big Four foreign ministers conference.

Advisers of Secretary of State Christian A. Herter expect the Soviets to launch a propaganda offensive blaming the West for failure of the talks and marshalling world pressure for a summit conference.

There is a possibility the Western foreign ministers may seek a recess of their conference and leave the way open to get together again.

President Eisenhower has made plain that he has no intention of meeting Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev unless the foreign ministers show enough progress to justify a heads-of-government conference.

But Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.), a frequent critic of administration defense policies, called the new plan ridiculous and "a continuation of the previous master compromise of the Joint Chiefs of Staff."

Three are in serious condition.

A conference of law enforcement officials and ballistics experts Friday agreed that a large quantity of black powder, possibly 25 pounds, exploded.

Police identified him as John G. Feller, 23, of the Roslynale section of Boston, who escaped Tuesday from a mental hospital at Wingdale, N.Y.

Feller was committed for having a home-made bomb in his possession at a recent Fidel Castro rally in New York.

The bomb was described as an 11-inch explosive device filled with sulphur and zinc. Police said Feller had exploded two bombs in New York City's Central Park with a year.

The bomb in a coin locker at the elevated North Station here shattered a waiting room and part of the platform. Some of the persons injured were thrown 30 feet to the street by the blast. Others were struck by debris on the street below and six were injured as they sat in an approaching train.

Bishop Asks New Plan on Juvenile Crime

LAKESIDE, Ohio (AP)—Bishop Hazen G. Werner has told the Ohio Conference of the Methodist Church a program of prevention rather than rehabilitation is needed to curb juvenile crime in Ohio.

He made the remarks in his devotional message Friday, explaining that statistics show the increasing inadequacy of facilities for juvenile rehabilitation.

He cited overcrowded conditions at the Boys Industrial School at Lancaster.

"We can never hope to even hold our own with a program of rehabilitation," Bishop Werner declared, "and so must give greater consideration to the prevention of juvenile crime."

He called for an end to secrecy concerning names of juveniles involved in crimes as one means of prevention.

The following ministers were elected to the jurisdictional conference to be held next year in Grand Rapids, Mich.:

Drs. Lance Webb, Harold F. Kellogg and John Knight, all of Columbus; the Revs. Paul Childs and A. L. Slack, both of Van Wert; Dr. Arthur Whitmore of Toledo; Dr. W. Arthur Milne of Cincinnati; and Dr. Walter Dickhaut of Lima.

Laymen also elected these 14 delegates to the jurisdictional conference:

R. G. Warner and Vaughn Lewis both of Xenia; Edward H. Laylin and Charles Jones, both of Columbus; Dr. Lester S. Ivins of Defiance; Ralph J. Merrile of Delphos; William M. Judd of Andersonville; Fred Chambers of Luckey; Kenneth W. Hunt of Casstown; Burt Hodges of Granville; Warren C. Young of Franklin; Russell Weatherwax of Middlefield; and Paul W. Huenfeld of Cincinnati.

Herbicides Hurt Vegetable Crops

Weed killers have saved Ohio farmers thousands of dollars in labor costs in weeding crops, but if many of these herbicides are improperly used, they can cause much damage to vegetable crops growing in the same area, according to George Hamrick, county agent, agriculture.

The hormone type weed killers, 2,4-D and 2,4,5-T are the principal offenders.

Few people realize that nearly all vegetable crops can be damaged at some stage in their life cycle by 2,4-D or 2,4,5-T drift or vapor. Some crops are injured more easily than others. Tomatoes, peppers, snap beans, cucumbers, melons, lettuce and many other vegetables can be injured by very small concentrations of 2,4-D. Sweet corn and potatoes are less susceptible, Hamrick said.

One of the problems involved in weed killer damage is the tremendous volumes of air involved above a cornfield, for example, that has been sprayed with 2,4-D. A 30-acre field would involve more than 7½

Two Pickaway 4-H Youths To Attend Leadership Camp

"Focus on the Four H's" will be the program theme for more than 170 4-H club delegates who attend Junior Leadership Camp at Camp Ohio near Utica June 15-20. Each county may send a boy and a girl. Those attending from this county will be Roger Schneider and Beverly McKenzie.

Roger has just completed his freshman year at Ohio State University and is the son of Mrs. Herman Hines, Route 4. Beverly recently graduated from Pickaway High School and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence McKenzie, Route 1.

The camp is sponsored by the Agricultural Extension Service in cooperation with the Ohio Farmers Insurance Co. Delegates are selected because of their interest in leadership, willingness to contribute to the camp program and willingness to share ideas and suggestions learned at camp with others in their county.

Sheep Dip Season Starts Next Week

The Pickaway County Sheep Improvement Assn. annual sheep dipping program will begin June 15. Lester Brown, of Cardington, has again been recommended by the association to do the dipping.

The recommended program that will be followed will contain the correct strength of Toxephene to control sheep scab. Scab is the most difficult of the sheep parasites to control. The tiny scab mites prick the skin and suck blood serum. A group of these punctures become surrounded by a reddish inflamed area. Serum from the tiny wounds and the swellings rupture. This forms the scab from which the disease takes its name. The bites of the scab mites cause itching and this leads to scratching, rubbing and biting. The first symptoms as a rule are rubbing or scratching.

Herbicides Hurt Vegetable Crops

Weed killers have saved Ohio farmers thousands of dollars in labor costs in weeding crops, but if many of these herbicides are improperly used, they can cause much damage to vegetable crops growing in the same area, according to George Hamrick, county agent, agriculture.

The hormone type weed killers, 2,4-D and 2,4,5-T are the principal offenders.

Few people realize that nearly all vegetable crops can be damaged at some stage in their life cycle by 2,4-D or 2,4,5-T drift or vapor. Some crops are injured more easily than others. Tomatoes, peppers, snap beans, cucumbers, melons, lettuce and many other vegetables can be injured by very small concentrations of 2,4-D. Sweet corn and potatoes are less susceptible, Hamrick said.

One of the problems involved in weed killer damage is the tremendous volumes of air involved above a cornfield, for example, that has been sprayed with 2,4-D. A 30-acre field would involve more than 7½ million cubic feet of air, assuming that spray particles are suspended in a column of air 6 feet above the soil surface. Wind movement can send this air mass over nearby vegetable crops.

Farmers using herbicides should do everything possible to confine the tiny spray particles to the sprayed area, horticulturists caution. Increasing the amount of water applied per acre, increasing the nozzle diameter to obtain larger particle size, reducing the pressure, and not spraying when winds are blowing toward susceptible crops are practices to watch when using herbicides, the county agent said.

Selecting the right form of 2,4-D also will help to reduce the damage. The amine or low volatile forms of 2,4-D should be used in place of the more volatile ester forms. Recently several new herbicides have appeared that can be used near horticultural crops with little hazard. However, plants sprayed with 2,4-D are not hazardous for human consumption.

Two Pickaway 4-H Youths To Attend Leadership Camp

"Focus on the Four H's" will be the program theme for more than 170 4-H club delegates who attend Junior Leadership Camp at Camp Ohio near Utica June 15-20. Each county may send a boy and a girl. Those attending from this county will be Roger Schneider and Beverly McKenzie.

Roger has just completed his freshman year at Ohio State University and is the son of Mrs. Herman Hines, Route 4. Beverly recently graduated from Pickaway High School and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence McKenzie, Route 1.

The camp is sponsored by the Agricultural Extension Service in cooperation with the Ohio Farmers Insurance Co. Delegates are selected because of their interest in leadership, willingness to contribute to the camp program and willingness to share ideas and suggestions learned at camp with others in their county.

This is Roger's ninth year in 4-H club work. During this time he has maintained an A average on all 4-H projects and held all the offices of the local club. This past year he was state 4-H tractor winner and placed second in the state 4-H tractor operators contest.

Hospital Aides

Urged To Air 'Differences'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. Michael V. DiSalle told superintendents of 25 state mental institutions today to "talk out their differences" on a recent survey of the hospitals and to take a positive approach.

DiSalle requested the meeting for further discussions on the overall study made by Jay Collins, Euclid Hospital administrator.

The governor said: "We don't get the answers by talking to ourselves or in small groups, but in getting all of the facts out in the open."

He told the group that he feels a face-to-face discussion could produce some meeting of the minds and establish a program that could move forward.

He also told them that a master plan is not a fixed blueprint but will have to keep up with changing conditions.

"We ought to look at this thing without resentment," DiSalle said.

The governor said if mental hospitals expect more money there will have to be proper planning to support fund requests.

"We can't sell it to the Legislature if we don't, because we don't have supporting data."

Although the session was open to questions and comments from the floor, only one person took advantage of the opportunity.

DiSalle Likes Approach to Ohio Labor Measure

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. Michael V. DiSalle terms the third revision of his labor reform bill the best yet.

He continues to express confidence that the Democrat-controlled Legislature will enact the measure embodying much of the AFL-CIO code of ethics.

But four months after introduction of the measure, it remains stuck in the 21-member House Elections and Federal Relations Committee.

Chairman Andy Devine (D-Lucas) asserts labor-inspired reports that the bill is dead are exaggerated.

"The bill is very much alive," Devine told newsmen. "But right now it lacks two votes." He added that prospects for the committee to recommend passage appear good.

Devine and Reps. Frances McGovern (D-Summit) and George M. Hook Jr. (D-Brown) did most of the work on the third revision.

"Everything the governor asked is in the bill and the language is clearer," Miss McGovern reported.

Devine agreed but he asserted the measure won't solve all labor racketeering problems. Only a "Little Wagner Act" could do that, he added.

The revised bill proposes to include union officers, agents and employees in an existing statute providing penalties for embezzlement by guardians, executors, trustees, lodge officers and others.

The change followed claims by AFL-CIO spokesmen that unions were singled out for statutory restrictions.

Maximum penalty for embezzlement of more than $60 is 10 years in prison; under $60, a $300 fine and 90 days.

The labor ethics measure also contains a clause holding employers as well as unionists responsible in bribe and payoff cases. Maximum penalty for violation is a $1,000 fine and one year.

A similar penalty applies to officials acquiring pecuniary interests that conflict with positions of trust in their union.

Unionists with interests in contracts for purchases by their labor organizations face maximum imprisonment of 10 years.

Conspiracy sections aimed at union officials who assign underlings to commit criminal acts carry penalties of 1 to 10 years and a fine.

TV Wins More Leading Stars

Top Names Finding 'Annuity' in Medium

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — This fall will see the biggest invasion of television by top movie names in the history of the new medium.

Esely is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Iron Rutter, Stout Road.

He serves aboard a service craft, the YOG 90.

With the 1959-60 season pretty well shaped up, the schedule of new shows indicates a stellar turnout. Stars who can still draw top money in films are turning to the series grind.

The lure is obvious: security. They need only observe the fortunes earned by Loretta Young, Jane Wyman, Lucille Ball, Dick Powell, David Niven and others who got into TV. The important factor is not the salaries, but ownership of the series. This can amount to an annuity.

Here are some of the newcomers:

"Robert Taylor's Detectives" (ABC-Fri.) Taylor plays a captain of detectives in a typical American city.

"June Allyson Theater" (CBS-Mon.). An anthology show with Miss Allyson as hostess and part-time star.

"Whispering Smith" (NBC-Mon.). Audie Murphy stars as a detective in the first city police force in the West. Guy Mitchell plays his sidekick.

"The Deputy" (NBC-Sat.). Henry Fonda appears with Allan Case, Wallace Ford and Betty Lou Keim in a Western adventure show.

"Wichita Town" (NBC-Wed.). Joel McCrea plays the marshal with son Jody as his friend, a foreman on a frontier ranch.

Ohio Shorted On U.S. Flood Control Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio, whose citizens pay more federal taxes than those in 44 other states, is far down on the list when federal money is passed around for flood control.

Rep. T. Ludlow Ashley (D-Ohio) has been told by Army engineers that only 12 flood control projects have been completed in Ohio since the flood control program was started 22 years ago. The total cost: About $95 million dollars. That compares with:

Texas, 241 million; South Dakota, 381 million; Kentucky, 270 million; Arkansas, 314 million; Louisiana, 330 million.

In fairness, however, it should be pointed out that projects are recommended by Army engineers on the basis of flood protection needs.

Nearly half the flood control money allotted Ohio—about 40 million dollars—went for the Muskingum River reservoir system, bounded roughly by Mansfield, Cambridge and New Philadelphia-Dover.

As this year's public works bill now stands, Ohio will get $400,000 for Cleveland harbor; about five millions for Dillon Dam and $284,000 for a Roseville channel project (both in the Muskingum valley); and about half-million dollars for planning a project on the west branch of the Mahoning River.

No money is allocated for new projects in Ohio areas hard-hit by floods in January and February.

Rep. Robert W. Levering (D-Ohio), whose district includes Newark and Mount Vernon which took particularly bad beatings from flood waters, has persuaded a House committee to authorize flood control studies in that area. But his request for money got nowhere.

"I think I was lucky to get as far as I did," Levering said.

Governor's Anti-Vice Powers Told

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy ruled today the attorney general and governor "constitute an effective law enforcement team" but warned: "These are extraordinary powers."

The informal, but detailed, opinion was handed Gov. Michael V. DiSalle, who asked for the study as part of his crusade to stamp out gambling and vice in the state.

DiSalle has threatened to spotlight counties that do not clean up gambling. If this fails, he wants the attorney general to step in and do the job where he believes local officials have failed.

Summing up his 11-page opinion, McElroy told the governor:

"... When expressly requested in writing by the governor, the attorney general can investigate and prosecute persons accused of crime, using as a medium of such prosecution special grand juries in the various counties. Further he can after court directive, padlock illicit liquor, gambling, and prostitution establishments and bring quo warranto action against corporations engaged in illegal activities."

"Notwithstanding the foregoing it should be kept in mind that these are extraordinary powers, to be used wisely and only in aggravated specific situations and not in general fashion."

Emergency Squad Training Stressed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ever catch yourself wishing (after you've scrambled out of its way) that you were going along on an emergency squad run?

Pretty dramatic—siren screaming, weaving skillfully through heavy traffic, racing against time. But what would happen when you got to the scene?

How are you at delivering babies, calming hysteria, selecting and using rescue tools? There isn't much sense in going if you can't handle the situation when you arrive.

DiSalle has threatened to spotlight counties that do not clean up gambling.

If this fails, he wants the attorney general to step in and do the job where he believes local officials have failed.

"Notwithstanding the foregoing it should be kept in mind that these are extraordinary powers, to be used wisely and only in aggravated specific situations and not in general fashion."

McElroy said the law is clear that the attorney general has wide power to step into counties and act as the prosecuting attorney in investigation and calling special grand juries.

McElroy said these powers "could certainly be used much more" than in the past.

DiSalle Likes Approach to Ohio Labor Measure

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. Michael V. DiSalle terms the third revision of his labor reform bill the best yet.

He continues to express confidence that the Democrat-controlled Legislature will enact the measure embodying much of the AFL-CIO code of ethics.

But four months after introduction of the measure, it remains stuck in the 21-member House Elections and Federal Relations Committee.

Chairman Andy Devine (D-Lucas) asserts labor-inspired reports that the bill is dead are exaggerated.

"The bill is very much alive," Devine told newsmen. "But right now it lacks two votes." He added that prospects for the committee to recommend passage appear good.

Devine and Reps. Frances McGovern (D-Summit) and George M. Hook Jr. (D-Brown) did most of the work on the third revision.

"Everything the governor asked in the bill and the language is clearer," Miss McGovern reported.

Devine agreed but he asserted the measure won't solve all labor racketeering problems. Only a "Little Wagner Act" could do that, he added.

The revised bill proposes to include union officers, agents and employees in an existing statute providing penalties for embezzlement by guardians, executors, trustees, lodge officers and others.

The change followed claims by AFL-CIO spokesmen that unions were singled out for statutory restrictions.

Maximum penalty for embezzlement of more than $60 is 10 years in prison; under $60, a $300 fine and 90 days.

The labor ethics measure also contains a clause holding employers as well as unionists responsible in bribe and payoff cases. Maximum penalty for violation is a $1,000 fine and one year.

A similar penalty applies to officials acquiring pecuniary interests that conflict with positions of trust in their union.

Unionists with interests in contracts for purchases by their labor organizations face maximum imprisonment of 10 years.

Conspiracy sections aimed at union officials who assign underlings to commit criminal acts carry penalties of 1 to 10 years and a fine.

TV Wins More Leading Stars

Top Names Finding 'Annuity' in Medium

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — This fall will see the biggest invasion of television by top movie names in the history of the new medium.

With the 1959-60 season pretty well shaped up, the schedule of new shows indicates a stellar turnout. Stars who can still draw top money in films are turning to the series grind.

The lure is obvious: security. They need only observe the fortunes earned by Loretta Young, Jane Wyman, Lucille Ball, Dick Powell, David Niven and others who got into TV. The important factor is not the salaries, but ownership of the series. This can amount to an annuity.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ever catch yourself wishing (after you've scrambled out of its way) that you were going along on an emergency squad run?

How are you at delivering babies, calming hysteria, selecting and using rescue tools? There isn't much sense in going if you can't handle the situation when you arrive.

And the State Trade and Industrial Education Service intends to see that those assigned to emergency squads, full or part-time, are prepared for the problems they are likely to encounter.

In cooperation with Ohio State University's College of Education, it has produced a training manual which apparently is the first of its type in the nation. To all indications, the manual is going to be a best-seller.

It came out in January and the first 3,000 copies were used up by the end of February. Another 5,000 were run off as soon as possible, and officials say half this number has been ordered by fire departments and other agencies in Ohio and other states.

In addition, the service has a registered nurse (male type) making a kind of circuit rider swing through Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, Dayton and Toledo twice a month, training 22 fire department officers to be emergency squad instructors.

Eleven are full-timers; 11 volunteers. They are being taught by Jack Liberator, R. N., also an unemployed full-timer.

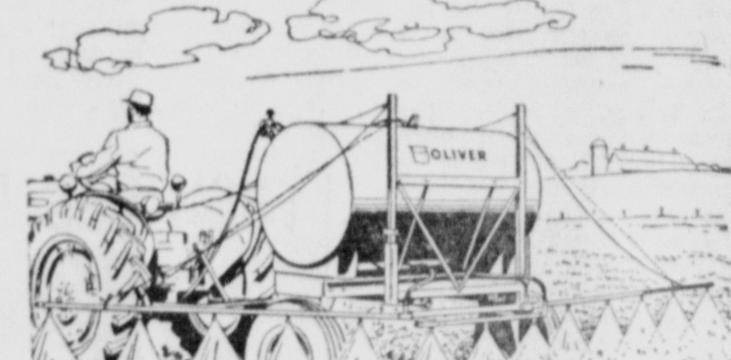

The 203-page manual describes the emergency equipment available, how to use it, situations likely to be encountered and how to handle them, victim care, personnel qualifications, records and reports, and legal aspects.

Practice of Fiscal Sanity

Measuring the dilemma of the United States government after a generation of deficit financing are the signals of national debt distress and the urgency of proposed measures to solve the problems.

The permanent debt ceiling is $283 billion. Under consideration is a request for Congress to boost it $12 billion to $295 billion. Most Washington observers are convinced increased spending is built into federal programs to such an extent that there will be no balanced budgets for two or three years at least.

As far reaching is the pending proposal to lift the interest ceiling on government bonds. Savings bonds, now paying 3 1/4 per cent, would pay a higher return. And Uncle Sam would offer more than the current 4 1/2 per cent rate to investors who held their bonds five years or more.

Higher interest rates on savings bonds might result in the sale of more of them and act as a stimulant to thrift in other ways. The government has drifted into so inflationary a way of managing the debt that changes are becoming mandatory.

Private investors, seeking larger returns, have been shunning government paper. So the Treasury turns to the banks. The Treasury is forced to draw checks on money borrowed from the banks, thus increasing the money supply. If the money supply grows faster than the supply of goods and services, there is inflation.

It is regrettable that the government did not budget its receipts more frugally since World War II. Now the government is in stiff competition with citizens and business concerns for money while interest rates go up. That spurs inflation. The supply of money could be still further increased, but that would only lessen its purchasing power.

The only recourse now is fiscal sanity that stops the practice of adding to the debt and begins whittling away at it until it is reduced to more manageable proportions.

No Substitute for Sound Money

Along with the Treasury proposal to lift interest rates on government bonds to make them more attractive to investors comes official action in New Jersey permitting an insurance company to sell "variable annuities."

These policies paying retirement benefits to the holder would be backed by funds invested in common stocks. If inflation sent the value of the stocks sky high, policyholders would get bigger returns. Up to now annuities have been on fixed basis, regardless of whether the value of the dollar went up or down.

Most of the big insurance companies are at present uninterested in the scheme, though there is pressure for such legislation in other states.

This is merely another straw in the continuing economic winds caused by the failure of Congress to adopt policies that will stabilize the buying power of money.

Variable annuity contracts may look good as inflation skyrockets quoted values and the investor looks forward to retirement with a higher income than he had anticipated. But the alternative cannot be ignored—a possible collapse of values that might leave the holder little or nothing.

This is to say there is no security substitute for sound money. Nations do not go on the rocks maintaining the integrity of their currency. They collapse, and the true welfare of the people is mocked, as their medium of exchange becomes less than honest.

Courtin' Main

A girl loves to be told that time stands still when you gaze into her eyes, but never tell her that her face would stop a clock.

Brains Available Everywhere

In this period, when men tend to avert controversy lest they disclose the baseness of their thinking or the lack of logic of their views, it is good to know that at any rate there is one man who uses strong words and means them.

The controversy arose over an article about Princeton in which reference was made to Father Hugh Halton, a Dominican priest who was once stationed at Princeton to improve the souls of the undergraduates but who is now at Oxford in England where he devotes himself to the Common Law. Father Halton had been removed from Princeton after differences with the university authorities over a matter of principle.

Father Halton wrote a letter to Ben Hibbs, editor of "The Saturday Evening Post," which was apparently forwarded to Harold H. Martin, contributing editor of the aforesaid magazine, who on May 25 wrote an interesting, even a brilliant, if you please, letter to Father Halton.

However, on the very same date Associate Editor Bill Breisick of this magazine wrote to M. M. Fearon, a reader, that "we have heard not a word from Father Halton," which the learned Dominican should not take too seriously as in a large organization it is possible that the right hand knows not what the left hand does.

Such being the state of affairs, Father Halton wrote, on May 31, further to Editor Hibbs, in which he says:

"...On my honour as a gentleman in the true sense, not merely an old boy with property and a coat of arms) and a Catholic priest, I say to you before God (fully conscious of the responsibility this implies) that I have never said, written or even remotely suggested in public or in private that 'three individuals deserved the title of anti-Christ: Martin Luther, Margaret Sanger and Robert Goheen.' (Goheen is President of Princeton.) Without malice the POST has printed an unequivocal lie..."

Thus, the Halton controversy which some men thought might be solved by removing Father Halton to England continues to rage, for involved is a fundamental principle, namely, is a man to be pilloried for his difference of view particularly in an institution of learning where the liberal minded demand freedom of thought and non-conformity for all except those with whom they come in contact.

And this is the nub of the conflict between the self-pronounced intellectuals and those who shun their learning. The self-assured intellectual demands uniform adherence to the style of the day. If everyone is against book-burning, no one should favor book-burning, although what one is to do with the vast accumulation of rubbish they do not say.

If the fashion is to forget that there were philosophers before Kierkegaard, it is so ordered, and therefore one is to grow a beard, wear blue jeans, look like a slob and give the impression of having conquered truth by defying its existence. This movement is universal and stems from Jean Paul Sartre, whom all young people must read to prove their age.

Father Halton may have been exiled for his pains, but the self-assured intellectuals go too far when they call themselves an elite, as one letter writer did in the Washington "Post," for it is difficult for a democracy to recognize an elite and it is impossible in truth and logic to have it both ways.

JOHN ARON PEACOCK is being sought by the FBI for unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for the crime of robbery. With two other bandits on Jan. 25, 1957, he reportedly robbed a Garland, Texas, food store manager of approximately $6,000 in cash as he was en route from the bank to his store.

Peacock, who has previously been convicted for violation of the Internal Revenue Code (liquor), is still being sought for his part in the Garland robbery.

A complaint was filed before a U. S. Commissioner at Dallas, Texas, on March 18, 1957, charging Peacock with violation of the Unlawful Flight to Avoid Prosecution Statute in that he fled from the State of Texas to avoid prosecution for the crime of robbery.

The fugitive, whose aliases include Aaron Peacock, Jay A. Peacock, John Peacock, John A. Peacock, John Aaron Peacock and "Little Red," has worked as jitney driver.

Peacock reportedly carries a gun at all times and has said he will not be taken alive. He should, therefore, be considered extremely dangerous.

Father Halton had been removed from Princeton after differences with the university authorities over a matter of principle.

Father Halton wrote a letter to Ben Hibbs, editor of "The Saturday Evening Post," which was apparently forwarded to Harold H. Martin, contributing editor of the aforesaid magazine, who on May 25 wrote an interesting, even a brilliant, if you please, letter to Father Halton.

However, on the very same date Associate Editor Bill Breisky of this magazine wrote to M. M. Fearon, a reader, that "we have heard not word from Father Halton," which the learned Dominican should not take too seriously as in a large organization it is possible that the right hand knows not what the left hand doeth.

Such being the state of affairs, Father Halton wrote, on May 31, further to Editor Hibbs, in which he says:

"...On my honour as a gentleman (in the true sense, not merely an old boy with property and a coat of arms) and a Catholic priest, I say to you before God (fully conscious of the responsibility this implies) that I have never said, written or even remotely suggested in public or in private that 'three individuals... deserved the title of anti-Christ: Martin Luther, Margaret Sanger and Robert Goheen' (Goheen is President of Princeton.) Without malice the POST has printed an unequivocal lie."

Thus, the Halton controversy which some men thought might be solved by removing Father Halton to England continues to rage, for involved is a fundamental principle, namely, is a man to be pilloried for his difference of view particularly in an institution of learning where the liberal minded demand freedom of thought and non-conformity for all except those with whom they come in contact.

And this is the rub of the conflict between the self-pronounced intellectuals and those who shily hide their learning. The self-asserted intellectual demands uniform adherence to the style of the day. If everyone is against book-burning, no one should favor book-burning, although what one is to do with the vast accumulation of rubbish they do not say.

If the fashion is to forget that there were philosophers before Kierkegaard, it is so ordered, and therefore one is to grow a beard, wear blue jeans, look like a slob and give the impression of having conquered truth by defeating its existence. This movement is universal and stems from Jean Paul Sartre, whom all young people must read to prove their age.

Father Halton may have been exiled for his pains, but the self-assumed intellectuals go too far when they call themselves an elite, as one letter writer did in the Washington "Post" for it is difficult for a democracy to recognize an elite and it is impossible in truth and logic to have it both ways.

(In co-operation with J. Edgar Hoover, FBI Director, this newspaper is running a series of descriptive articles on criminals wanted by the FBI.)

JOHN ARON PEACOCK is being sought by the FBI for unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for the crime of robbery. With two other bandits on Jan. 25, 1957, he reportedly robbed a Garland, Texas, food store manager of approximately $6,000 in cash as he was en route from the bank to his store.

Peacock, who has previously been convicted for violation of the Internal Revenue Code (liquor), is still being sought for his part in the Garland robbery.

A complaint was filed before a U. S. Commissioner at Dallas, Texas, on March 18, 1957, charging Peacock with violation of the Unlawful Flight to Avoid Prosecution Statute in that he fled from the State of Texas to avoid prosecution for the crime of robbery.

The fugitive, whose aliases include Aaren Peacock, Jay A. Peacock, John Peacock, John A. Peacock, John Aaron Peacock and "Little Red," has worked as jitney driver.

Peacock reportedly carries a gun at all times and has said he will not be taken alive. He should, therefore, be considered extremely dangerous.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

THE WORLD-FAMOUS paintings of birds by John James Audubon were executed at the expense of prolonged wandering through the wilderness finding and painting new species. In consequence, he spent little time at home with his family. "If I were the jealous type," said Audubon's wife Lucy, "I should have a bitter time of it, for every bird is my rival."

Frederick Remington, one of the great painters of the frontier days out West, loathed art galleries. Once, after allowing himself to be dragged to an impressionist exhibition, he scoffed, "Why, I've got two maiden aunts upstairs who can knit better pictures than these!"

The year's most perverse office boy ran into a bit of hard luck recently. He got excused for the afternoon to attend a baseball game, and then the boss caught him at his grandmother's funeral.

Get Married, Live Longer

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Want to live to a fairly ripe old age? Then get married.

While it's not exactly that simple, some rather enlightening statistics recently released by a medical publication clearly indicate that married persons have a greater chance of survival than do single persons.

According to "Patterns of Disease," the death rate for single men during 1957 was about 75 per cent higher than that for married men.

Influenza and pneumonia accounted for three times as many deaths among single men. Twice as many single women as married women died from these two diseases.

Twice as many single men as married men died from the following: cirrhosis of the liver, peptic ulcer, auto and other accidents and suicide.

Now why single men should have more fatal ulcer attacks is something I just can't figure out. You might expect the married men to be more ready victims of ulcers. But, apparently, such is not the case.

Homicides also took a greater toll of single men.

Here's the breakdown on that:

The homicide rate among divorced men was nearly six times as great as among married men. The rate for widowers was four times as great and that for single men was twice the total for married men.

The publication doesn't state why married men and women seem to get a better deal in relation to those various causes of death. And I don't see how anyone can come up with any logical reason.

But facts are facts.

Question and Answer

Mrs. A. A.: Could you tell me just what an "optical blood clot" is?

Answer: An "optical blood clot" probably refers to a clot in one or more of the blood vessels in the retina. This would usually affect the vision.

DiSalle Vetoes Bill

On Rail Inspectors

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. Michael V. DiSalle's first veto has come on a bill which would have given permanent job status to rail road inspectors after a 90-day probationary period.

DiSalle vetoed the bill Thursday. He said it would have given the inspectors life tenure without competitive examinations.

The bill passed the Senate by a vote of 30 to 1, and the House by 118 to 2. It takes a three-fifths vote of both House and Senate to override a veto.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—It's questionable that NATO — greatest peacetime military alliance in history—can hang together, at least as it is now with its 15 members.

Time, changes in the world, and Premier Nikita Khrushchev are all working on it. And Khrushchev's working hard.

It was a moment of terror when the Western allies, including the United States, set up the North Atlantic Treaty Organization on April 4, 1949 with the understanding that an attack on one was an attack on all.

Band together in common defense or face the prospect of being picked off one at a time. That was their choice.

The year before, communism had gulped down Czechoslovakia. And in April 1949 Stalin, with his blockade of Berlin, had forced the United States into its historic air-lift to save the city.

At that hour in history NATO gave the Allies a greater sense of security than they ever had before or since:

They had a terrifying superiority over Stalin because, if he attacked, the European Allies could hold him off with their ground forces while the United States flattened the Soviets with atomic bombs. That was the theory.

At that instant the United States alone had the atomic bomb. But it was a monopoly which, at the very minute the NATO treaty came into existence, was beginning to disappear.

Early in 1949 the Soviet Union was putting the finishing touches on its own atomic bomb which it was to explode for the first time later in the year. The United States went on to develop the hydrogen bomb. But so did the Soviets by 1953.

For lack of determination, the huge land forces which NATO members were supposed to produce never materialized. And, meanwhile, something else happened which made even the fairly small land forces they produced look even smaller.

The Soviets and the United States both developed missiles for crossing continents. Even President Eisenhower acknowledged last March that Allied armies in Europe did not mean much any more because they were overwhelmingly outnumbered by the Soviet Union.

The United States, with its fleets of bombers and their hydrogen bombs based at friendly stations around the Soviet perimeter, can still discourage a Soviet attack. This is still a consolation to the NATO members.

But it is a mixed consolation because of one thing: The world is in a transition period, passing from the day of the bomber to the era of the missile.

The United States is arranging to surround the Soviet Union with friendly stations on Allied soil—with bases for missiles which have their noses pointed at Moscow. In time, when there are enough missiles, the bombers will be obsolete.

But the Soviets are building in the Soviet Union their own bases for missiles pointed westward. In time, with enough hydrogen-headed missiles, Khrushchev could destroy Western Europe.

But it's a pipe-dream if the West thinks the United States can build missile posts right next door to the Iron Curtain and that the Soviets will keep all its own missile bases strictly inside the Soviet Union.

And even one of the NATO stalwarts, France, made the whole structure shudder this week when President Charles de Gaulle insisted upon having control over any nuclear stockpiles this country wanted to set up in France.

Khrushchev showed what a pipe-dream it is by warning Turkey and Greece, both NATO members, not to permit American missile bases in their territory unless they want him to build missile bases right next door in the Soviet satellites, Albania and Bulgaria.

And Thursday he cautioned other NATO members—Norway and Denmark—against permitting missile bases within their frontiers. He indirectly proposed that they get out of NATO altogether.

As bait for these four NATO members, he proposed to Greece and Turkey that there be a nuclear-free zone from Central Europe to the Mediterranean; to Norway and Denmark he proposed a similar nuclear-free zone in Scandinavia.

It is perhaps significant that Khrushchev, Stalin's successor, is trying to terrorize Greece and Turkey. Stalin tried the same, in another way, back in the late 1940's.

Stalin tried to shake Berlin free of the Western grip in 1949. Now, 10 years later, when he feels strong enough, Khrushchev is trying to shake Berlin free of the West.

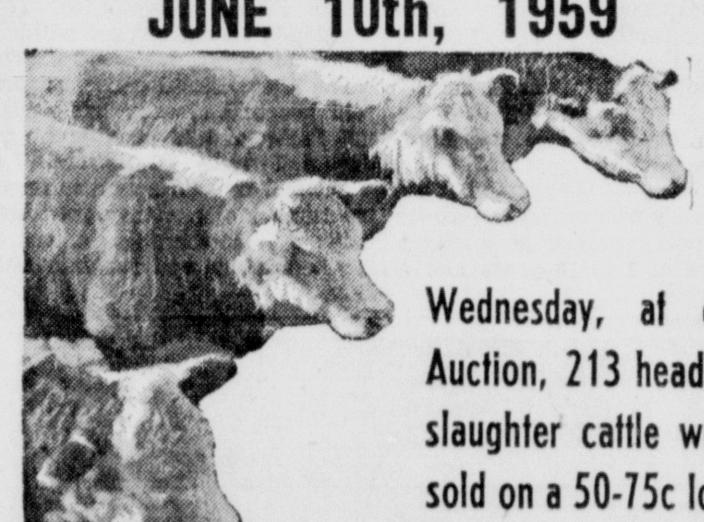

As Soviet missile power grows and as Khrushchev steps up his campaign to keep American missile bases out of NATO countries, those countries will feel more and more pressure to cut loose from NATO since, if war came, they'd be the nearest targets.

The world may be puzzled by Khrushchev's tactics over Berlin right now. But you can be sure this is just the beginning of a concentrated campaign to be carried on for years, to shake NATO to pieces.

And even one of the NATO stalwarts, France, made the whole structure shudder this week when President Charles de Gaulle insisted upon having control over any nuclear stockpiles this country wanted to set up in France.

WASHINGTON (AP)—So Billy or Betsy has trouble spelling? Well, parents, listen a moment to Ted Glim.

OSU's Ag College Dean To Retire

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Leo L. Rummell, dean of Ohio State University's College of Agriculture and Home Economics, will retire Dec. 31, he announced today. Rummell has been dean of the college since 1947. Since 1948 he has also been director of the Ohio Agriculture Experiment Station at Wooster.

The retiring official was an OSU trustee from 1939 to 1946. He was president of the National Assn. of Governing Boards of State Universities in 1946.

There was a fellow at the plant who was always asking me to go with him to church.

In a way this picture portrays his zeal. For there was something boyishly enthusiastic about his eagerness; something joyously genuine in his confidence.

And his fervor reminded one of the disciples of old who became "fishers of men."

Well, he brought my family to church. Not because he was a salesman or a saint. Simply because he encouraged us to seek the convictions he was so eager to share.

Betty and I, and little Ricky, really owe our cherished faith to the moment that fellow at the plant said, "TLL STOP BY YOUR PLACE ON SUNDAY MORNING."

Now, we too, find happiness in bringing our friends and neighbors to church.

Tribe Castoffs Bring Trouble For Yankees

Mossie Chalks Fourth In Row Against Big New York Combine

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS What is it about the World Champion New York Yankees that makes starting pitchers out of relievers who once worked for Cleveland?

Take Hoyt Wilhelm (and who wouldn't?). He was used as a starter infrequently by the Indians, but really made it after shifting to Baltimore and pitching that no-hitter against the Yankees last September. At the moment he's 9-0, with four in a row over New York.

Then there's Bud Daley, the left-hander who moved from Cleveland to Baltimore to Kansas City. He was a bullpen guy until he blanked the Yankees on two hits in a six-inning relief job last May 6. That gave him a chance as a starter, and he's won four of six since.

Or take Don Mossi, once a southpaw relief ace and a sometimes starter for Cleveland. He was strictly a reliever after the winter trade to Detroit, but he turned starter with an eight-hitter that beat New York May 3.

Friday night Mossi won his fourth in a row over the Yankees, allowing six hits for a 3-1 victory that jumped the Tigers into a third place tie in the American League race, two games shy of

Their seventh success in eight games and third straight gave the Tigers a deadlock with the Baltimore Orioles, whose game with Chicago's first-place White Sox was rained out. The Cleveland-Washington game also was postponed by rain. Kansas City beat Boston 3-2 and moved past the Yankees into fifth place in the only game played.

The rain rubbed out a possible 10th victory for Wilhelm, who had a 1-0 lead when the game was called after two innings. The rain also canceled a 20th home run by Washington's Harmon Killebrew.

"Call it great," said Manager Bill Rigney.

"Call it lucky," said young lefty Mike McCormick.

Call it a little of both, for McCormick pitched a no-hit shutout in a 3-0 San Francisco victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Friday night that was preserved at five innings by rain.

The Phils' Richie Ashburn singled in the bottom of the sixth and a couple of walks had the bases loaded before the rains came, washing away the frame.

It also hoisted the Giants within a single game of Milwaukee's National League-leading Braves once more. The Braves were beaten 9-7 at Chicago. Third-place Los Angeles defeated Pittsburgh 9-6. St. Louis beat Cincinnati 2-1 in 10 innings.

Rain Washes Out Cleveland Contest

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rain which washed out Friday night's Cleveland-Washington game (with the Senators leading 1-0 in the first inning) resulted in a change of pitchers for today's contest.

Indians' manager Joe Gordon will start Mike Garcia instead of Herb Score, who gave up a home run to Washington's Harmon Killebrew. The blast never will get in the record books.

The Senators' manager, Cookie Lavagetto, is also changing his pitching plans. He's going to start Russ Klemmer instead of Indians' manager Jim Mudcat Grant will pitch in the doubleheader here Sunday.

Joe Hiestand Uses Old Gun To Win Title

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — Joe Hiestand, a standout marksman for the past quarter century, used an old pump shotgun—normally fired at rabbits around his Hillsboro farm—to win the state singles trapshooting championship.

He won his 11th title Friday at the 73rd annual Ohio Trapshooting, but had to survive a 25-target shootoff. Hiestand, Fred Waldock Jr. of Sandusky, defending champ, and P. O. Harbage of West Jefferson, had tied at 199 of 200.

In the shootoff, Hiestand broke 25 straight targets. Waldock and Harbage missed one apiece.

Patent Bellett of Wapakoneta broke through a 75-target shootoff to win the junior title from Mike Baker of West Alexandria. They had tied at 195-200.

A 186-200 mark won the sub-junior title for Larry Johns of Amanda. Mrs. Van Markey of Versailles won the ladies championship with 196-20. George and Dorothy Roose of Salem won husband-wife honors with 383-400. Veteran's champ was Frank Hosea of Mason, with 196-200.

John Sternberger, 21, of Dayton, won the Class AA championship in a deferred 50-target shootoff Friday. He tied Thursday at 199-200 with Waldock and Owen Stauffer of Trotwood.

The state trapshooting ends Sunday with the handicap finals.

The longest run in the National Football League last season was 83 yards by John Crow of the Chicago Cardinals. Crow's touchdown run was against Washington last Oct. 4.

Tribe Castoffs Bring Trouble For Yankees

Mossie Chalks Fourth In Row Against Big New York Combine

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
What is it about the World Champion New York Yankees that makes starting pitchers out of relievers who once worked for Cleveland?

Take Hoyt Wilhelm (and who wouldn't?). He was used as a starter infrequently by the Indians, but really made it after shifting to Baltimore and pitching that no-hitter against the Yankees last September. At the moment he's 9-0, with four in a row over New York.

Then there's Bud Daley, the left-hander who moved from Cleveland to Baltimore to Kansas City. He was a bullpen guy until he blanketed the Yankees on two hits in a six-inning relief job last May 6. That gave him a chance as a starter, and he's won four of six since.

Or take Don Mossi, once a southpaw relief ace and a sometimes starter for Cleveland. He was strictly a reliever after the winter trade to Detroit, but he turned starter with an eight-hitter that beat New York May 3.

Friday night Mossi won his fourth in a row over the Yankees, allowing six hits for a 3-1 victory that jumped the Tigers into a third place tie in the American League race, two games shy of first.

Their seventh success in eight games and third straight gave the Tigers a deadlock with the Baltimore Orioles, whose game with Chicago's first-place White Sox was rained out. The Cleveland-Washington game also was postponed by rain. Kansas City beat Boston 3-2 and moved past the Yankees into fifth place in the only other game played.

The rain rubbed out a possible 10th victory for Wilhelm, who had a 1-0 lead when the game was called after two innings. The rain also canceled a 20th home run by Washington's Harmon Killebrew.

"Call it great," said Manager Bill Rigney.

"Call it lucky," said young lefty Mike McCormick.

Call it a little of both, for McCormick pitched the no-hit shutout in a 3-0 San Francisco victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Friday night that was preserved at five innings by rain.

The Phils' Richie Ashburn singled in the bottom of the sixth and a couple of walks had the bases loaded before the rains came, washing away the frame.

It also hoisted the Giants with a single game of Milwaukee's National League-leading Braves once more. The Braves were beaten 9-7 at Chicago. Third-place Los Angeles defeated Pittsburgh 9-6. St. Louis beat Cincinnati 2-1 in 10 innings.

Rain Washes Out Cleveland Contest

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rain which washed out Friday night's Cleveland-Washington game (with the Senators leading 1-0 in the first inning) resulted in a change of pitchers for today's contest.

Indians' manager Joe Gordon will start Mike Garcia instead of Herb Score, who gave up a home run to Washington's Harmon Killebrew. The blast never will get in the record books.

The Senators' manager, Cookie Lavagetto, is also changing his pitching plans. He's going to start Pedro Ramos against the Tribe. Russ Kemmerer retired the Indians in the first frame Friday night, yielding only a walk to Tito Francona.

Score and Jim (Mudcat) Grant will pitch in the doubleheader here Sunday.

Joe Hiestand Uses Old Gun To Win Title

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — Joe Hiestand, a standout marksman for the past quarter century, used an old pump shotgun—normally fired at rabbits around his Hillsboro farm—to win the state singles trapshooting championship.

He won his 11th title Friday at the 73rd annual Ohio Trapshooting, but had to survive a 25-target shoot-off. Hiestand, Fred Waldock Jr. of Sandusky, defending champ, and P. O. Harbage of West Jefferson had tied at 199 of 200.

In the shoot-off, Hiestand broke 25 straight targets. Waldock and Harbage missed one apiece.

Dave Berlett of Wapakoneta breached through a 25-target shoot-off to win the junior title from Mike Baker of West Alexandria. They had tied at 195-200.

A 186-200 mark won the junior title for Larry Johns of Amanda. Mrs. Van Marke of Versailles won the ladies championship with 196-20. George and Dorothy Rose of Salem won husband-wife honors with 383-400. Veteran's champ was Frank Hosea of Mason, with 196-200.

John Sternberger, 21, of Dayton, won the Class AA championship in a deferred 50-target shoot-off Friday. He tied Thursday at 199-200 with Waldo and Owen Stauffer of Trotwood.

The state trapshooting ends Sunday with the handicap finals.

The longest run in the National Football League last season was 83 yards by John Crow of the Chicago Cardinals. Crow's touchdown run was against Washington last Oct. 4.

How To Trap a Newspaperman

DEAR ABBY: I am thirteen and am in love with the paper boy. He says he wants to be a newspaper reporter and is starting at the bottom. The trouble is there are two other girls who are also after him. They are both prettier than I am and have nicer clothes. They say they don't like him but the way they look at him, Wow! One night I was walking home alone and he was behind me. I could have slowed up but I didn't have brains enough. I got home and could have kicked myself. How can I get him to like me?

FRUSTRATED

DEAR FRUSTRATED: Next time you see him (be sure he's alone) say "Hi" good and loud and follow it right up with a question about the newspaper business. ("How are collections? Are there any contests going?") Show an interest in HIS interest and watch him thaw out.

DEAR ABBY: How old do you

McCormick takes Cheap No-Hitter

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "A cheap no-hitter, but I'll take it." That was bonus left-hander Mike McCormick's reaction Friday night after he pitched the San Francisco Giants to a 3-0 no-hit victory over the Philadelphia Phillies in a game halted by rain in the Phillies' sixth.

Actually, Richie Ashburn touched McCormick for a clean single over second in the sixth, but the hit was wiped off the record books when the umpires called the game. The contest reverted back to the fifth inning and went on the record books that way.

"I was lucky," McCormick said calmly. "I'm just glad I won. I've been having my troubles lately. You know I lost my last two."

Capt. Les Austin of the Syracuse University wrestling team, a senior from Amityville, N. Y., had a straight "A" average in pre-med during the recently-concluded semester.

Carolina League umpire Frank Powers of New York City has referred in the National Basketball Assn. the last two years.

MRS. P. V.

DEAR MRS. V.: Write to the Adjutant General's Office, Washington, D.C.

Ortiz Gains TKO Against Howling Lane

NEW YORK (AP) — Carlos Ortiz and Kenny Lane were just settling down to a hard night's work when a cut over Lane's right eye gave the Puerto Rican-born New Yorker the newly revived junior welterweight title.

The controversy over the sudden ending probably will continue until Friday night's Madison Square Garden principals meet again in an Aug. 21 or Aug. 28 rematch.

Dr. Harry Kleiman of the New York State Athletic commission advised Referee Harry Kessler to stop the bout between the second and third rounds. Under New York rules it went as a second round technical knockout. In National Boxing Assn. territory it would have been scored as a third round TKO.

"It was a butt," complained Lane, the talented southpaw from Muskegon, Mich., who is the No. 1 contender to lightweight king Joe Brown.

"It was a right hand punch," said the 22-year-old Ortiz. "But our heads met after the punch."

About 10 stitches were needed to close the gash.

Lane, bitterly disappointed, said "they should have let it go a couple rounds more. I was just getting to him. I would have knocked him out in the eighth or ninth."

Ortiz, who floored Lane for a four-count earlier in the stormy second, said he would welcome a rematch.

Monroe Ag Society Under State Probe

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The State Agriculture Department may try to arrange some kind of hearing as a result of complaints against the secretary of the Monroe County Agricultural Society, director Robert H. Terhune said today.

Terhune said the complaints—30 in all—were made Wednesday by the society's treasurer, T. B. Strickling, to Marvin Kline, the attorney general's representative in the Agriculture Department. They primarily concern financial matters, the director explained.

The society's secretary, Ralph Schumacher, brought the county fair organization's records to the department the following day, Terhune said, and he briefly discussed the complaints at that time.

"I certainly don't want to judge a man guilty until we've heard his side of the matter," the director added.

Schumacher delivered the records after they were subpoenaed (several days before the complaints) by the department. Terhune said he has not had time to study them extensively, but commented that society directors apparently met only twice in 1958 and once so far this year.

He said the society's minutes do not indicate other meetings, and that directors are supposed to meet monthly.

Gen. Frederick Fruenst of New Carlisle, in Clark County was known as "Freddie". He became world famous for the capture of Emilio Aguinaldo, leader of the Philippine revolt.
